What is better clutter or being neat?
In my opinion being neat helps me focus and get tasks done.

One reason why I like to be neat is I can focus on school work and feel confident in my life. One example why I like to be neat is when I go to the store and buy school supplies and when I take it home I organize it in my school box. Another example is when I take out my legos and put them on the ground it stresses me out but when I put them on my play table I feel like I can play for hours.

A second reason is clutter is also nice because on page 4 paragraph 10 they had a study in Denmark. Scientists found out that people in a neater room stick to what they know however people in a clutter room have a creative spot. That study surprised many people.

When you want to become organized and neat there are three questions you have to ask to your self,
Do I love this Item?
Have I got another one that is better?
Does this Item make me smile,

All three of those reasons and examples were about How being neat is great but clutter is nice too.
